Founded in New York City in 1957 by Anthony Russo, Sr., our company was built on a reputation on integrity and honesty and the mark of our success was evident with numerous emergency demolition jobs and many notable jobs including the demolition of the old Dodger Stadium, and the Coney Island Theme Park.

In 1968 the company was brought to Florida and, as in New York, became well known and successfully accomplished such jobs as imploding the Martinique Hotel in North Miami Beach and handling the demolition of numerous airport buildings and runways in what is now the Ft. Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport.

Richard A. Hamann, grandson of Anthony Russo, Sr. became the third generation demolition contractor in 1985 and the business has continued to flourish. The scope of work handled by Rick Hamann and Sons Demolition, Inc. has included emergency demolition jobs for Broward County, the Hallandale Beach Water Tower, Ft. Lauderdale Soccer Stadium and numerous private and commercial projects throughout the Tri-County area. We pride ourselves on finishing a job "always on time and always spotless".

Rick Hamann and Sons Demolition is a certified minority owned full-service demolition contractor for residential, commercial and industrial projects. We monitor our projects very carefully having a family member present at all of our job sites and have been recognized by awards and certificates for our work in Broward and Palm Beach counties. Most of our work comes to us by referrals from satisfied clients.
